NO MONOPOLY ON CAR DESIGN

"When Henry Ford reduced the price of his cars he opened up an immense unworked field for every manufacturer of a reliable automobile. Thousands of people will begin to consider the purchase of an automobile now on account of the low price of a Ford and a considerable percentage will buy higher priced cars.

Ford has undoubtedly done more to advance the use of automobiles than any other man. Every man who buys a Ford has several neighbors or business competitors who immediately begin to think of buying a car.

There can no more be a monopoly of the trade by an automobile factory than there can be a monopoly in the design of our homes or our clothes. Individual taste will demand scores of styles and sizes.

Such is the statement made by L. G. Thompson, who has just driven from Los Angeles to Phoenix to establish a sales organization for the Saxon Motor Sales company, distributors of Saxon cars for Arizona and southern California.

The rapid development of Arizona and the extension of the good roads already built will create an immense demand for good motor cars, is Mr. Thompson's opinion.

Since automobiles have become common they have become a necessity. Touring cars and trucks have afforded economical transportation to large agricultural and mining districts that would otherwise have remained undeveloped. Just as good roads follow automobiles so does development of the country follow good roads.

Far-sighted business men see a wonderful opportunity for good profits in the automobile business, now that motor cars are standardized and built to afford economical service.

The necessity of adequate efficient service for owners is recognized as a big factor in the success of any automobile sales plan. It is part of Mr. Thompson's work to establish an extensive line of service stations that will work in conjunction with the sales department, so that all Saxon owners can be assured of service facilities all over the state.

The fact that the sale of Saxon cars has increased in California during the past year, so that instead of standing in thirty-second place, as it did in 1915, the Saxon now ranks seventh, leads to the conclusion that there is not only an increased demand for automobiles, but particularly for Saxons. This demand is due largely to the fact that the Saxon is one of the few high grade cars at a nominal price which has a six-cylinder motor and standard well-known parts throughout.

RIGGINS' RECORD ONE BEST BOOST

Progress of the schools of Maricopa county under the superintendency of J. A. Riggins, is being used by his supporters to advance his candidacy for state superintendent of public instruction. They believe that he is competent to do on a larger scale for the state what he has been able to do for his own county.

Mr. Riggins' influence has already been felt over the state. The uniform accounting system, the central purchasing proposition, the organization of the trustees of the county into a co-operative working body, all originated with Mr. Riggins, and have since been adopted in several counties.

He also arranged for domestic science and manual training circuits in the rural schools, and in many ways has made it possible for rural schools to have the advantages that are so often accorded only the city schools.

Mr. Riggins believes that the office of state superintendent is an executive office made doubly so by its connection with the Board of Pardons and Paroles. The law says the Board of Pardons and Paroles shall be composed of the attorney general, the superintendent of public instruction and a citizen member chosen by them. This condition makes it all the more necessary that a man be chosen who can think for himself, and who will take a stand for what he knows is the best interest of the state, regardless of his own personal interests.

Without taking the time from his duties as superior judge of division two of this county, to elector for nomination for the office to which he was appointed little more than a year ago, Frank H. Lyman will post a large democratic vote at the primaries, according to his followers.

The business of his office requiring his attention, Judge Lyman has been unable to meet the voters. He has not attempted to make a campaign, but he is nevertheless known to a great majority of the men and women who will cast their ballot next Tuesday. If they do not know him personally, they know him by his splendid record as a public officer.

As prosecuting attorney and legal adviser of this county, he proved thoroughly efficient, and when appointed to the higher office of superior judge, met his new responsibilities in an able manner. His ability and fitness are unquestioned by those who have appeared before him in any of the departments of the superior court. Judge Lyman disposed of all cases set for trial by the first of July, and at present is engaged in non jury cases that were set for the first month. Since his appointment he has had one half of all civil cases and juvenile matter, the probate of estates, guardianships, and in the absence of Judge Stanford last month sat in criminal cases.
